Mary Davis – Publications on using Turnitin formatively

Davis, M. and Carroll, J. (December 2009). 'Formative feedback within plagiarism education: is there a role for text-matching software?' International Journal of Educational Integrity 5(2). Available at http://www.ojs.unisa.edu.au/index.php/IJEI/issue/view/117

Davis, M. (2009). 'The role of Turnitin within the formative process of EAP: a tool for global academic culture' in BALEAP 2007 Conference Proceedings

Davis, M. and Yeang, F. (2008) 'Encouraging international and dyslexic students to develop more learning strategies for writing through the use of Turnitin' BeJLT 2(3) November 2008. Available at:
http://bejlt.brookes.ac.uk/article/encouraging_international_and_dyslexic_students_to_develop_better_learning/

Davis, M. (2008) 'Using Turnitin to provide powerful formative feedback'. ASKe 123 Guide, Oxford Brookes University. Available at http://www.brookes.ac.uk/aske/documents/Turnitin.pdf

Davis, M. (2007) 'The role of Turnitin within the formative process of academic writing: a tool for learning and unlearning'. BeJLT 2 (2) October 2007. Available at http://bejlt.brookes.ac.uk/article/the_role_of_turnitin_within_the_formative_process_of_academic_writing/

Davis, M., Emerson, L. and Carroll, J. (2007).'The use of electronic detection systems for learners. Is there a pedagogic argument or are we just teaching them to cheat?' European Association for Research on Learning and Instruction at Budapest 28 August-1 September 2007, 12th biennial conference. Abstract available at:
http://earli2007.hu/nq/home/scientific_program/programme/parallel_sessions/&session=10

Davis, M. (2007). 'Creating learning and unlearning opportunities from Turnitin in the process of academic writing' 'Designing for learning' - E-Learning Conference at University of Greenwich, 4 July, 2007 Paper details at http://web-dev-csc.gre.ac.uk/conference/conf32/presentations/davis_2007.ppt