

THE PLANETS: "MARS" BY HOLST (1874-1934)

The diagram is a circular flow of musical instrument icons and musical notation. At the top, a constellation of yellow stars is connected to a green hexagonal section containing a satellite, a rocket, and instruments: trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, and cello. A musical staff with notes and a ff dynamic marking is connected to this section. Moving clockwise, a purple diamond section contains an astronaut, a rocket, and instruments: trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, and cello. A blue circular section contains a comet, a rocket, and instruments: trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, and cello. A pink diamond section contains an astronaut, a rocket, and instruments: trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, and cello. A green hexagonal section contains a satellite, a rocket, and instruments: trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, and cello. A musical staff with notes and a ff dynamic marking is connected to this section. Finally, a red circular section features a large red planet, an alien, and instruments: trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, and cello. A musical staff with notes and a pp dynamic marking is connected to this section. The background is a dark blue space with white stars and two spiral galaxies.
